CATTLE GROWERS CONTINUE MEETINGS

Many Resolutions Were Adopted Saturday Night, and Matters of Inspection, Brands and Grazing Lands Discussed.

The second meeting of the three days' session of the Arizona Cattle Growers' association was held Saturday night, at which there were several important matters brought before the association for discussion, relating to inspections and various brands, and the adoption of several important resolutions.

The association will convene again tonight at which the election of officers for the coming year and other final matters will be attended.

The association extends an invitation to all cattlemen to attend its meeting tonight, and take part in the discussions.

The resolutions in full as adopted by the association follow:

Report of the Committee on Resolutions of the Arizona Cattle Growers' Association.

No. 1. We congratulate the members of the Arizona Cattle association on the general prosperity of the live stock industry in Arizona. Now that stockholders are assured with increased responsibilities and duties upon the citizens of the state, we believe that a more complete organization of the stock interests is necessary, and to that end we particularly urge the organization of local live stock associations to co-operate with the state association. This, we believe, will result in more effectually handling many local questions.

No. 2. We recommend the appointment by the president of this association of a legislative committee of fifteen members from the various portions of the state to take up the particular needs of the stock industry and prepare for presentation to the legislature of the new state, such measures as are deemed necessary for the best protection and development of this industry.

No. 3. It has been absolutely demonstrated by the work of the experimental station of the University of Arizona that an over-grazed and eaten-out range can be restored to its former condition, with abundant and nutritious grasses, by permitting the native grasses to re-seed themselves, and by careful and intelligent use instead of abuse of the open range. Such rehabilitation of the semi-arid grazing lands means a largely increased carrying capacity and a greater supply of live stock for Arizona and the whole United States, to the consequent benefit of the entire country. We firmly believe that under the present unrestricted grazing, overstocking and misuse of the range, no improvement is possible, and that conditions can only be remedied by federal control of the semi-arid, unappropriated grazing lands under a lease system, with fencing privileges.

This association has, in past years, urged congress to enact laws providing for such control under proper restrictions, protecting the agricultural home-owners.

The need of a "leasing law" is now recognized by the great majority of the practical stockmen throughout the west, and we believe that there is a strong possibility of passing such a law through the approaching session of congress.

Now, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, by the Arizona Cattle Growers' association in convention assembled at Phoenix, Arizona, November 4th, 1911, that we again urge congress to provide for the classification of all the unoccupied lands of the west, and that such lands are found most suitable for grazing purposes, be leased to the stockmen for grazing. We reaffirm our approval of the Curtis-Scott bill, formulated by The American National Live Stock association, and introduced in congress at its last session, which provides for such leasing upon a fair and equitable basis to all concerned. We believe that the range-grasses of the west constitute one of our great natural resources, and that as a matter of economic necessity to provide an adequate supply of meat food animals, congress should arrange for the proper preservation and intelligent use of the grazing lands of the arid west.

RESOLVED, that copies of this resolution and the bulletin issued by the experimental station of the University of Arizona on this subject, be sent to all members of the senate and house of representatives of the United States.

No. 4. We also urge upon congress the enactment of laws compelling railroads to furnish cars for the interstate movement of perishable goods on reasonable notice, and to transport minimum of stock trains as most important, and we believe that such a speed minimum should be not less than sixteen miles an hour.

No. 5. We express our appreciation of the action of congress in the enactment of many needed amendments to the interstate commerce law, especially as regards the suspension of any advance in interstate rates or fares, except upon the approval of the interstate commerce commission when such advances are contested. We believe that congress should now arrange a basis of valuation of property of the common carriers of the country, in order that the interstate commerce commission and state railway commissions may be able to intelligently pass upon many threatened advances in the railroad rates.

No. 6. We thoroughly approve of the creation of a non-partisan tariff commission. We oppose any change in the present import duties on live stock and meat food products.

We believe that in the administration of the new state there should be appointed on the live stock sanitary board only those who are actually engaged in the business, who, before appointment, should receive the endorsement of this association.

No. 8. We endorse the practical work of the employees of the forest service in our state. We urge upon our members the appointment of an advisory board to co-operate with the officers of the forest service of the different reserves in Arizona. In this way our members can personally aid in the settlement of many disputes between stockmen relative to their rights for prior relocation in the reserves.

We are convinced that the excluded grazing areas in the national forest should be protected and that sheep should not be allowed in these areas, and we believe that to protect the ranches of the legitimate stockmen an excluded area should be allowed around each home ranch of six hundred forty acres, this to apply both within the national forest and in the grazing districts on the public domain.

No. 9. We approve the very capable and effective work of our live stock sanitary board and state veterinarian.

No. 10. We endorse House Resolution No. 12425, entitled, "A bill to encourage and promote the sinking of wells on the desert lands in the Territory of Arizona," introduced by our delegate in congress, Hon. Ralph H. Cameron, and respectfully urge an early and favorable consideration of the bill by the committee on public lands.

We express our thanks to the capable and energetic secretary of the American National Live Stock association, Mr. T. W. Tomlinson, for his efficient services towards securing better freight rates on cattle shipments from this state, and for his satisfactory presentation of The Arizona Live Stock case before the interstate commerce commission at Los Angeles on September nineteenth, 1911, and believe that a strong delegation from this association should attend the annual meeting of the American National association held in Denver, December 12th and 13th, 1911, at which time it is hoped, at a meeting with the representatives of the railroads, that a satisfactory adjustment in freight rates may be reached without awaiting the decision of the interstate commerce commission.

No. 11. As the cattle interests of Arizona are continually threatened by Texas fever tick infection, and as the erection of drift fences makes it possible for the state sanitary authorities to control and eradicate this disease, we therefore urge the building of such drift fences, and we recommend that the officers of this association and the live stock sanitary board use their best influence to secure from the secretary of the interior permission to establish these drift fences, and thus prevent the spread of the infection.

No. 12. We endorse the action of the live stock sanitary board on insisting on a rigid inspection of dairy and breeding cattle entering the state. We favor the passage by the legislature of a dairy inspection law to be placed in operation under the supervision of the sanitary board.

No. 14. We desire to express our thanks to the officers of this association for their untiring work during the year, and we again urge upon our members the necessity for more complete co-operation in the work of the association to the end that the interests of the live stock industry may be more fully protected.

No. 15. We request the secretary of this association to publish the proceedings of the annual meeting and to send a copy to every stockman in the state and to our representative in congress.

No. 16. We recommend that the annual dues of all members holding over 2000 head of cattle be increased from one half cent a head on cattle to one cent per head.

BELFAST AND ORANGEMEN.

There is probably no spot in the world where 250,000 people produce so much wealth as in Belfast, writes Sydney Brooks, in the November Forum. Their ship yards and linen mills, their tobacco factories and distilleries, their printing works and rope factories, are the emblem of a magnificent conquest over inconceivable odds, a fine and indisputable record of industrial achievement. To grant them all that and to realize its significance is to understand, though not necessarily to sympathize with, their attitude, their natural and quite inevitable attitude, toward the five-sixths of Ireland that is Catholic, rural, chimerical, moribund and dreamy. If Chicago were planted in Lower Quebec, how would it feel and act toward its hinterland? Belfast remains, as one would expect it to remain, a hotbed of unbending Protestantism and almost ferocious unionism. There is little community of interest or sympathies between itself and the rest of Ireland that it can be brought to feel or acknowledge. Having almost the monopoly of applied intelligence and industrial prosperity, having also power on the brain and its eyes on the country house, Belfast simply asks of Catholic Ireland to be let alone. With all their hard-headedness and practicality, the men of Belfast, true to their Scottish origin, are a singularly emotional people. They still celebrate the Battle of the Boyne and drink to the immortal memory of William III as though the first were an event of yesterday and the second an active figure in present day politics. They still speak of the pope as though a new armada were on the point of sailing. Outside of business, indeed, the men of Belfast seem hardly to care to reason at all. Their political creed is really a political cult, a compound of tears, instincts, hatreds and suspicions in which facts are metamorphosed out of all semblance to reality. Discussing Irish questions with them is very much like attempting to argue the race question with a southern planter of the old school. They are a city of Tillmans; and the very qualities of earnestness, virility and obstinate fidelity to the few leaders who win their reluctant trust that have made them so formidable, have made them also the dupes of their prejudices and the easy prey of men to whom the rawness of the Orange creed is nothing but a laughable stepping stone to place and power.

NOT IN PROPORTION

"I'm a self-made man," said the proud individual. "Well, you're all right except as to your head," commented the other part of the conversation. "How's that?" "The part you talk with is out of proportion to the part you think with."

SOME SUCCESS

"Did you find the promoter of that get-rich-quick concern?" asked one detective. "Yes," replied the other. "Arrested him?" "No, not yet. He's a mighty ready and convincing man. But I managed to avoid buying any stock from him."—Boston Herald.

NEW STRENGTH FOR OLD BACKS

The great discomforts of old age are poor eyesight, deafness, lame back, stiff, aching joints and urinary ills.

Most often these troubles come from a weakening of the kidneys. The kidneys have a heavy task during a long life of filtering the blood and keeping the body free from the irritating effects of uric acid. Kidney weakness usually gets little attention and it is no wonder if the kidneys break down.

And where the kidneys are sluggish and weak, there is little comfort. Backache is likely to become a constant trouble, lameness in the morning, pains when stooping or lifting, restlessness at night, too frequent and painful passages of the kidney secretions and persistent languor.

Rheumatic pains, stiff joints, dizzy spells and weakness of sight and hearing are often due to the excess of uric acid in the blood. So are gravel and stone, dropsy swellings of the limbs and extremities, heart weakness.

Doan's Kidney Pills have proved a
